

5

12

2

1. The first part of the document is a letter from the President of the United States to the Congress, dated January 1, 1861. It is a very important document, as it sets out the President's policy for the new year. The President states that he is pleased to see the Congress assembled, and that he is confident that the country is in a good position to meet the challenges of the future. He also mentions the recent election of Abraham Lincoln as President, and expresses his confidence in the new administration.

2. The second part of the document is a report from the Secretary of the Treasury, dated January 1, 1861. It provides a detailed account of the financial state of the country, and outlines the Treasury's plans for the coming year. The Secretary states that the country is in a sound financial position, and that the Treasury is confident that it will be able to meet all its obligations. He also mentions the recent increase in the national debt, and expresses his confidence that it will be paid off in the near future.

3. The third part of the document is a report from the Secretary of the Interior, dated January 1, 1861. It provides a detailed account of the state of the interior, and outlines the Secretary's plans for the coming year. The Secretary states that the country is in a good position to meet the challenges of the future, and that the Interior is confident that it will be able to meet all its obligations. He also mentions the recent discovery of gold in California, and expresses his confidence that it will be a great benefit to the country.

4. The fourth part of the document is a report from the Secretary of the Navy, dated January 1, 1861. It provides a detailed account of the state of the navy, and outlines the Secretary's plans for the coming year. The Secretary states that the navy is in a good position to meet the challenges of the future, and that the Navy is confident that it will be able to meet all its obligations. He also mentions the recent acquisition of the USS Monitor, and expresses his confidence that it will be a great addition to the fleet.

5. The fifth part of the document is a report from the Secretary of the War, dated January 1, 1861. It provides a detailed account of the state of the army, and outlines the Secretary's plans for the coming year. The Secretary states that the army is in a good position to meet the challenges of the future, and that the War is confident that it will be able to meet all its obligations. He also mentions the recent acquisition of the USS Monitor, and expresses his confidence that it will be a great addition to the fleet.

6. The sixth part of the document is a report from the Secretary of the State, dated January 1, 1861. It provides a detailed account of the state of the country, and outlines the Secretary's plans for the coming year. The Secretary states that the country is in a good position to meet the challenges of the future, and that the State is confident that it will be able to meet all its obligations. He also mentions the recent acquisition of the USS Monitor, and expresses his confidence that it will be a great addition to the fleet.

5

Worker #1

Worker #1

6

Worker
#2

21

3

Total Product

Workers

6

Worker

#1

7

Worker #2

7

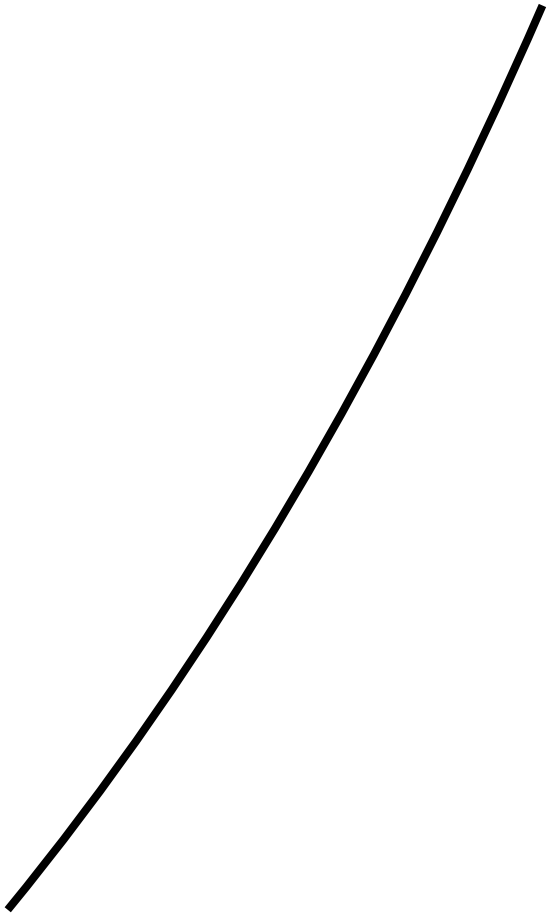

Worker #3

Increasing Function

As more workers are hired, the total product increase

Total Product

Total Product

Total Product

As more workers are hired, the total product increase

Total Product
(TP)

