

An article in the Wall Street Journal reports that "most cable TV operators are aware that cable is price sensitive, and there comes a point where people won't pay the price." Which demand curve best illustrates this situation?

When is a Market “Competitive”?