

In Perfectly Competitive Markets

There are so many producers that producers have no power to set the price consumers pay

We say that

Producers are price takers

Producers do not set prices

Producers "react" to prices

In Perfectly Competitive Markets

There are so many producers that producers have no power to set the price consumers pay

We say that

Producers are price takers

Producers do not set prices

Producers "react" to prices

Price per unit

Supply

