

Can the Government close a recessionary gap without increasing the budget deficit?

Consumers
spend less

To avoid increasing the deficit, the government must increase taxes if it wants to increase spending

Government
spend more

Would the effects
cancel each other?

Can the Government close a recessionary gap without increasing the budget deficit?

To avoid increasing the deficit, the government must increase taxes if it wants to increase spending

Consumers
spend less

Would the effects
cancel each other?

Government
spend more