The producer still has the depreciated capital good while intermediate goods go entirely into the production of the Final Good

Applying this short cut when deciding between Intermediate and Capital goods is easy in some cases:

A factory is clearly Capital

Wood to make furniture is clearly Intermediate

A computer is clearly Capital

Fabric to make dresses is clearly intermediate

But in some cases, the distinction is not as clear...

The producer still has the depreciated capital good while intermediate goods go entirely into the production of the Final Good

Applying this short cut when deciding between Intermediate and Capital goods is easy in some cases:

A factory is clearly Capital

Wood to make furniture is clearly Intermediate

A computer is clearly Capital

Fabric to make dresses is clearly intermediate

But in some cases, the distinction is not as clear...