How does managing the economy compares with the "hands off" approach?

