What distinguishes a Capital good from an Intermediate good is that after selling the final good, the producer still has the depreciated capital good while intermediate goods went entirely into the production of the Final Good

Hamburger meat

Is an Intermediate good because it is entirely included in the hamburger you buy

Is a Capital Good because Burger King still has the oven after you purchase the hamburger

Oven

What distinguishes a Capital good from an Intermediate good is that after selling the final good, the producer still has the depreciated capital good while intermediate goods went entirely into the production of the Final Good

Hamburger meat

Is an Intermediate good because it is entirely included in the hamburger you buy

Oven

Is a Capital Good because Burger King still has the oven after you purchase the hamburger

What distinguishes a Capital good from an Intermediate good is that after selling the final good, the producer still has the depreciated capital good while intermediate goods went entirely into the production of the Final Good